Rescue Ships Search In Vain For Survivors

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(U.P.)—Adrift and helpless on a storm-swept sea, 337 passengers and crew of the liner Vestris, abandoned 330 miles off the Virginia coast, were awaiting rescue early today while vessel after vessel reached the reported position and searched for them in vain.

At least four ships were at the scene when the 10,000-ton liner was abandoned and those on board it took to the life boats. The ships were the San Juan, Santa Barbara, Ohio Maru and Collier. All have radioed that they were searching but have seen nothing.

Etna Eruption To End, Experts Say

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 12.—(U.P.)—A cloud of thick, black smoke hung over the summit of Mount Etna today as government experts predicted that the disastrous eruption, which has carried ruin to the Nuziata valley, might subside within the next few days.

Although it was admitted that the "mountain of fire" obeyed no rules, Professor Gaetano Ponte of the Etna observatory, who flew over the entire course of the lava stream, said that the eruption apparently had reached a turning point and might be expected to abate steadily. The heavy black smoke emitted from the wide crater of the mountain were a good indication, he pointed out.

Meanwhile, thousands of peasants in the valley region were making plans for a return to their former homes if the eruption ceases. Many of them know they will find only desolation where once were neat houses and rich farm lands.

Loser Of Election Bet Makes Crawl

Bruised knees, that were mutilated for the cause of Alfred Smith, were being nursed yesterday by Emil Esola, assistant manager of the Tenth street branch of the American Trust company. At the same time A. A. Alstrom, justice of the peace was musing over the fact that justice had been done and all election debts are now even between him and Esola.

Esola, a staunch supporter of Smith, (before Nov. 6), was so certain that the democratic candidate would be the next president, that he entered into a freak bet with Alstrom, hoping to see the justice of the peace roll down Sixth street from Barrett to Macdonald avenue.

Instead Esola had to crawl the distance on his hands and knees Sunday afternoon as agreed upon at the time of the wager. A crowd of several hundred watched Esola as he patted his way down Sixth street, automobiles passing him just about as fast as his candidate was passed by the republican candidate, Herbert Hoover. Special pads provided for Esola's knees failed to serve their purpose and made the rub all the harder. At the end of the crawl Esola was seen making a fast retreat to a doctor's office.

RICHMOND IN ARMISTICE FETE

With appropriate ceremonies, Richmond's memorial fountain erected to the memory of those who gave their lives for their country during the World War was dedicated in Memorial park yesterday. In spite of the heavy downpour of rain, a large crowd was present at the observance which also marked Armistice Day.

The program as planned by the Allied council of War Veterans, with the exception of the unveiling of the fountain, was carried out in Memorial hall. Following the services in the auditorium, the memorial shaft was unveiled so that those who had braved the storm might have the opportunity of viewing the monument.

Legion Speaker

Edward Schary, commander of Washington post American Legion in San Francisco was the speaker of the day. His talk was based on the preamble of the American Legion, the work accomplished and the work planned by that organization.

A program of patriotic numbers was presented by the Richmond Municipal band, the glee club of Roosevelt and Longfellow Junior high schools and the pupils of Persch school. Songs were sung by Mrs. Violet Williams and S. A. Marshall.

Following the program for the civic observance, the dedicatory ceremony, originally planned to take place at the fountain, was carried out. Mrs. Cora B. Cox, of Ben Lomond, state president of the War Mothers, delivered the dedication address and presented the monument to the city. Mayor Mattie A. Chandler accepted the fountain on behalf of the city. Woman's Cries Heard During Ride To Doom

Retracing the death drive through Richmond early Saturday morning which ended in the slaying of Mrs. Lucille Howson, 38, of 687 Ninth street, mother of four children, near Winehaven, police last night were piecing together evidence which may result in the definite identification of the slayer of the woman whose lifeless body was found beside a blood stained car. Her head was nearly severed by slashes from a razor.

The wild death ride through Richmond was revealed yesterday by E. A. Beckett, an employee of the Standard Hotel, 443 Standard avenue. He told police that he heard the piercing screams of a woman at about 3:30 Saturday morning. He arose and saw a car answering the description of the death car driving slowly down the street toward Winehaven. He dressed and made a search of the hotel to ascertain if the screams had come from the hotel. A report of the matter was later made to the manager of the hotel.

"The Wedding March"

FAY WRAY

Just another woman. This trusting, tender, beautiful girl, glittering, handsome, unscrupulous, a scion of Vienna society, he plays up the heart of the beautiful child-woman with expert deftness. A wonderful love.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY—"JUST MARRIED"

HORSE IN FILM WANTS SOFT MUSIC

A horse as temperamental as a prima donna was used as the personal mount by Erich von Stroheim, who appears as the star of "The Wedding March," the California theater feature, which he wrote and directed for Paramount. The picture appears for the last time today.

From the first day on the set he thoroughly indicated nervousness and restlessness, and von Stroheim, who is a thorough horseman, having received his training in the Mounted Life Guards of the Emperor Franz Joseph, was amazed at the conduct of the handsome dappled bay. Although he tried all the tricks of the skilled horseman to make the animal stand still when told to and otherwise to conduct himself according to proper ethics, the horse misbehaved continually. Finally von Stroheim dismounted, moved away into the shadows of some tall eucalyptus trees and figured it out.

The horse did not like jazz music!

With the attention to detail that is characteristic of von Stroheim, he remembered that it was one of the many "blues" which most irritated the horse.

Returning to his musicians he told them to try jazz on the animal and see how he reacted. This was done with the result that he behaved in an excitable and nervous manner, which was distinctly provoking to his rider.

Then the orchestra struck up several other airs—not jazz, but sentimental; the horse still misbehaved; then classical music was tried without avail.

Finally von Stroheim shouted: "Try 'Kiss Me Again.'"

Rescue Ships Search in Vain For Survivors

The Collarier in its message at 10 p. m. Monday said that there were ships to port and starboard of it.

It was revealed at Washington that the Vestris must have encountered a terrific storm Sunday. Through the aftermath of this storm a dozen rescue ships were ploughing at racing speed, or reaching the position from which the Vestris last was reported, were steaming slowly along on their desperate search. Their searchlights picked out points of light on the waves. It was feared here that there was little hope that survivors of the liner would be rescued or even located before dawn at the earliest.

CAMPAIGN FOR RED CROSS STARTS

A dollar, half of which remains in the local treasury and the other half goes for national and international work. If a citizen gives five dollars it is known as a contributing membership and $4.50 remains for local work. Ten dollar donations are called sustaining memberships; and all but 50 cents stays in the community. The supporting membership is $25, of which only fifty cents must be sent to the national headquarters.

Activities Increase

Since the Richmond chapter established permanent headquarters, with an executive secretary, Mrs. Italia Hollingsworth in charge, activities have been on the increase.

A life saving and swim campaign was among the initial endeavors of the local chapter; production work, including the making of layettes, knitting of sweaters, making of jams and jellies, surgical dressings, has been kept up during the year under the leadership of Mrs. E. L. Scott. A display of production work in the windows of the Clinton B. Smith store will be one of the features during the drive.

The local chapter has aided disabled veterans in securing government benefits due them, taken care of destitute families of ex-service men, not previously taken care of by veterans organizations; helped the local health center with surgical dressings; and sent away many cartons of jams and jellies for soldiers in hospitals. A monthly entertainment is provided for the veterans at Ward Island, under the direction of the Richmond chapter. The formation of a disaster preparedness group was also among the activities of Richmond during the last year.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet should be encouraged. But when necessary there is no harm in taking a laxative. It works mechanically and doesn't disturb the normal function of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when stool should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless laxative. It won't cause distress or any pain or griping."

THE IMPOSTER

Tarzan crouched glaring at the blazing eyes of the panther in the yawning dark mouth of the cave and suddenly getting set by instinct he leaped. He landed on the panther's back and the animal shrieked as over and over rolled man and beast. Black John from behind a rock stared, his eyes almost popping out of his head. What an opponent was this for him! If he had pressed at all it would have been to get the animal to let the panther, his deadly foe, see the panther. To neither Bobby in the cave nor Black John behind the rock did it seem that Tarzan had a chance. Suddenly Bobby discovered another opening to the cave and dashed out through it—directly into the arms of Black John behind the rock.

"Fork over them papers, kid!" he growled as he seized Bobby.

BLACK JOHN'S REVENGE

The more he threatened and cajoled the harder Bobby beat it. A little monkey saw him jabbered and swung along in the trees. But Black John was gaining. Bobby was getting more winded. He stopped to hide behind a bush. That would never do. Suddenly he saw a leopard cub dart into a cave. Black John was coming closer. Bobby followed into the cave. Outside now he could hear Black John cursing and swearing. "Which way did the cub go?"

It was not many seconds after Mary missed Bobby that she was calling the alarm to Tarzan. Tarzan took it. Here was work for the tribe. He had them all out tracking "Black John and Bobby. All night they scoured the jungle fastness and found not a trace. Even Tarzan was without a clue until suddenly, high over head, he heard a chattering. It was one of the monkey people. Tarzan stopped, listened, chattered back and was off.

Behind him Taag, crafty and cunning, was watching. He had heard the chattering. Suddenly now he, too, descended from the trees directly in front of Mary. His powerful arms encircled her and he started to drag her off as he had Taag.

Black John was just about to enter the cave where he could hear sounds of Bobby playing with the leopard cub when he drew back as a small, The mother leopard had leaped to the cave mouth, more deadly than the male as she sensed a possible danger to her cub. Another moment and Bobby was confronted by two gleaming green-yellow eyes and a blood-curdling howl as the infuriated cat crouched to play with this man-animal, torturing it as in its fiendish nature it did with its other jungle prey before the kill.

DEATH RIDE OF SLAIN WOMAN REVEALED

The last time he was seen was found saturated with blood in the car. A bloody stained hammer with the handle broken, an automobile driver's license belonging to Jackson, his ring and other personal effects were found in the machine which was found on a little used road near the Shrimp Camp.

Killed By Razor
An autopsy performed under the direction of Coroner Aubrey Wilson yesterday revealed that the woman had died from the razor slashes and that although bruised by blows on the face and head from the hammer they were not sufficient to have caused death. It was also established that the woman met her death some time late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Harry E. Howson, husband of the woman assisted the police yesterday afternoon in investigating the tragedy. He had first reported his wife missing at 8:30 a. m. Saturday morning. At that time he reported to the authorities that his wife and Jackson had driven away Friday afternoon and had not been seen since.

He inquired as to automobile accidents which had occurred in the bay region but was unable to find a trace of the pair. Later he went to the office of A. A. Alstrom, justice of the peace, and discussed the disappearance with him. He voiced the opinion that Jackson might have forced his wife to leave with him and the issuing of a warrant was suggested.

Gone For Ride
According to Howson's story to Chief of Police Dan Cox, when he returned home Friday evening his children reported that their mother had gone for a ride with Jackson. Mrs. Anna Schack, 623 Ninth street, neighbor of the Howson's had also been invited on the trip but at the last minute decided not to go.

That was the last seen of the couple as far as could be ascertained last night. Howson said that he waited all night for his wife to return and when she did not show up in the morning he made his report to the police.

When the news of the murder was broadcast, he was in Oakland with two of his children, searching for his wife. He immediately hurried to the Richmond police station and spent the entire afternoon and most of the evening in session with Chief Dan Cox and Police Captain Louis E. Jones, working on possible clues.

Found by Baker
First indication of the tragedy was made early yesterday morning when Eddie Baker, traffic officer, was summoned to the Standard Oil plant on the report that a car had been seen near the Shrimp Camp for several days. With a Snedley Standard Oil employee acting as guide, Baker went to the car.

Beside the automobile in a huddled heap lay the body of Mrs. Howson, covered by a piece of canvas. Nearby lay an empty razor box from which the razor had evidently been taken. The razor has not been found.

In the car was a complete change of blood stained clothing identified as those worn by Jackson. According to police all of the blood stains on the clothing were on the outside of the garments, indicating that the wearer had handled the body of the slain woman after the cuts had been made. In the car were found other personal effects of Jackson and a parking ticket from an Oakland parking station. It is the theory of the police that the couple went to Oakland and either attended a theater or a dance.

Double Slaying
It is the belief of investigating authorities that if the murder was committed by a third party, the body of Jackson had been disposed of at another place and the clothing and effects thrown into the car to throw investigators off the track. If the murder was committed by Jackson it is their theory that he changed clothing and fled, or after disposing of the blood stained garments ended his life with the razor or by leaping into the bay. The car was so saturated with blood that it would have been impossible for anyone to drive it along the street without instantly arousing suspicion.

It is Jackson committed the crime it is the theory of police that he realized this and abandoned the car and made his getaway on foot. Jackson left a suit of clothes at the Howson home but according to members of the family he had no contact with him. This, as well as some blankets which he always carried in the car, have not been found. A thorough search of the section will be resumed this morning.

Jackson was sent to San Quentin prison on Oct. 11, 1923 for the slaying of Theodore Lockhart, 45 former inmate of the State Asylum for the Insane at Salem, Ore. The slaying occurred near Chico on Aug. 27, 1923. Jackson was employed as caretaker at the home of Mrs. A. J. Sollars, at Nord. Jackson claimed that Lockhart had annoyed Mrs. Sollars and when he was ordered off the place accused Jackson as being the cause. Jackson was paroled from San Quentin on May 15, 1925 and received his final discharge on June 14, 1927.

Knew Family Well
Jackson had known the Howson family for many years, having been raised as a foster brother of Mrs. Howson. He was a frequent visitor at the family home on Ninth street. He is reported to have left the house on Wednesday presumably to go to Eureka where he had been working in the lumber camp. He returned to the Howson home on Friday afternoon, however, when the fatal ride started.

Mrs. Howson was the mother of four children, Arthur, 17, Kenneth, 16, Lola, 12, and Woodrow, 9.

The sheriff's office is conducting an investigation in conjunction with the police department. Deputy sheriffs R. McManara, Ralph Harrison and J. M. Joseph were in Richmond all day yesterday assisting in the investigation.

Howson an employee of the Pacific Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, is well known in Richmond and is active in lodge circles.

RADIO IN HOME ESSENTIAL, REPORT

"Every day I get many letters from radio owners," says V. G. Blake, of the V. G. Electric company, local representative of Stewart Warner. "They're from all parts of the country, from all types of homes. They all have something interesting to tell me—some new help they've had from the radio, some novel pleasure."

"For a long time, for some reason, rural people did not take to the radio with the same enthusiasm shown by the people in cities and towns. Now it has become a part of their daily routine and they're benefiting from it, as their letters indicate."

"The features they all stress in addition to out-and-out entertainment, such as dance orchestras, ball games, etc., and to purely cultural programs such as symphonies, lectures, religious services, etc., are the practical programs that deal specifically with their particular problems."

"Weather reports, stock market reports, and household economies are mentioned in almost every case, and frequently worth while savings in dollars and cents due to radio hints are quoted. The radio has swung the farmer into the trend of the times without leaving his house."

"The marked increase in wired arm houses has led to an unexpected large number of A. C. sets in rural homes, but the D. C. sets are popular. A large percentage of the new model 805, Stewart Warner's latest set for homes where alternating current is not available, will be sold in up-to-date rural districts."

"Manufacturers and farmers alike feel that a big thing is being done in the spreading of economic information by the radio, especially to places that previously were out of communication with the world for weeks and months at a time at certain seasons of the year."

"The marked increase in wired arm houses has led to an unexpected large number of A. C. sets in rural homes, but the D. C. sets are popular. A large percentage of the new model 805, Stewart Warner's latest set for homes where alternating current is not available, will be sold in up-to-date rural districts."

Red Cross Goal for 1929 Is Five Million Members

Our Greatest Mother
+ JOIN! +

If it were not for the American Red Cross and the prompt assistance it is prepared to render in emergency relief to the stricken, American people might well wonder what would be the aftermath when the four horsemen of death—disease, disaster and ruin—ride across the globe, leaving waste and terror in their wake. The Red Cross, claiming untold numbers of lives, is the thought is strikingly pictured in the Red Cross poster, painted for nationwide use in the Twelfth Annual Roll Call by Cornelius Hicks.

Only within a short period has the Red Cross responded to one of the greatest relief tasks in its career, when it was called into service following the West Indies hurricane, which struck Porto Rico and Florida and several small islands in the West Indies group. More than a half million men, women and children had to be fed, housed and clothed by the Red Cross, due to this terrific storm. The loss of life in Florida was as great as had ever occurred in any catastrophe before in the history of the United States. This was the eighty-ninth disaster in which the Red Cross had been called into action, or for monetary aid in this year. This is the spectacular work which centers attention upon the Red Cross—but it should not conceal the year-round public health work in rural communities; of the Red Cross nutritionists; of the Red Cross school children of the nation the lesson of proper eating; of the Red Cross life saver and first aid instructor, who annually teaches to hundreds of thousands the lesson of saving human life; of the Red Cross teacher of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, whose aim is to teach home care of the invalid; of the Red Cross worker who, ten years after the Armistice, still carries on for the world war veteran. Under the Red Cross banner also is fostered the Junior Red Cross, with a membership of 6,000,000 American school children.

For the support of these activities the American Red Cross needs the aid of the membership, and has set its goal for that number during the Roll Call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day—November 11 to 29.

In France, however, the button must be certified by the judges or a contest at the close as well as the beginning of a match.

Sword contests are attracting less attention than formerly, and the new rules, to be submitted to the International Fencing association, will merely call for closer inspection of blades and adequate thickness of body protection.

TWO INJURED IN FALSE FIRE ALARM

Capt. J. F. Lathrop of Station No. 4, Richmond fire department and Emil Graefenecker, 530 Tenth street, operator of the Merchants Patrol service, are recovering from wounds sustained in automobile crashes in Richmond Sunday night, the result of a false fire alarm.

According to police reports, the No. 4 fire truck on which Capt. Lathrop was riding was emerging from the fire station at Cutting boulevard and Thirty-seventh street when it was struck, almost head-on, by an automobile driven by Mrs. J. H. Towers, 151 Sixteenth street. The truck was responding to an alarm at Sixth street and Ohio avenue which later proved to be false. Mrs. Towers is a daughter-in-law of J. Towers, driver of the truck.

Graefenecker, who was on his way to answer the alarm, was injured when his car turned over as he swerved to avoid an accident with another machine.

Lathrop sustained slight abrasions on the forehead and was taken to the Abbott Emergency hospital where he was treated by Dr. L. A. Hedges. He was able to return to his duties.

Graefenecker sustained possible fractured ribs and bruises at the base of the spine. Dr. Hall Vestal attended the man. The driver of the other machine gave his name as Jess Herron, 723 Fortieth street, Richmond.

Assistant Fire Chief J. J. Barry is investigating to learn the identity of the person turning in the false alarm. If caught, the person will be charged directly with the responsibility for the two crashes, Barry declared.

Texas To Breed Race Horses On 1000 Acre Ranch

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Racing horses that may lead the tracks of the United States in speed and in price may shortly be raised on a 1,000-acre breeding farm near San Angelo.

Plans for such an undertaking are those of E. C. Crump, race horse owner and breeder. He declares West Texas to be a logical place for the production of hardy horses, sought by racing owners throughout the world.

Crump, who has been following the races for eighteen years, expects to put about fifty brood mares on the farm with two studs from the leading stables of the country. He is a former resident of San Angelo, having lived in this city in 1909 and 1910, learning during this time that West Texas is the best breeding ground in the world for thoroughbred horses.

Autogiro Inventor Mistaken As Spy

PARIS, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—The scribbles of Marquis de Cierva, inventor and pilot of the autogiro which flew across the Channel, almost led to his arrest as a spy during the war.

Cierva who was living in France in 1914 enlisted immediately in the Foreign Legion. Even at that early date he was already working on his idea for a super-plane and spent his time making drawings and calculations.

The suspicions of his fellows were aroused and he was carefully watched until it was discovered that he was an inventor rather than a spy the regiment was harboring.

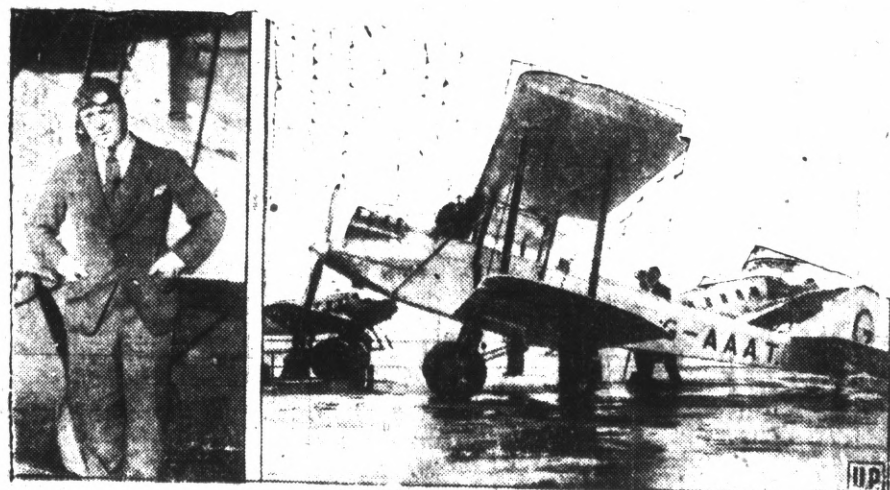

Chinese Smokers Pay Educators

PEKING, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Middle school teachers in North China are fighting to retain the benefits of the cigarette tax, which has been used to pay them. An effort has been made to use this tax for other purposes, and the teachers are dismayed.

Centenarian Dislikes Cars

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Leopold Cahn, who celebrated his 100th birthday here recently, refuses to permit his age to warp his viewpoints.

The centenarian is alert of mind, quite active for his years and keeps abreast of modern times by reading newspapers and conversing with the younger generation, he said.

"It depends on who wears 'em," Cahn said when asked to state his choice—short skirts or hoop-skirts.

"No, I don't like automobiles. They are too bulky. But I would like to ride in an airplane," said the centenarian as he knocked the ashes from a much used pipe. "Girls? I like them. I never married any of them. I always just liked 'em," Cahn said, adding that he though bobbed hair was "magnifique."

Napoleon Slight Repented By City

PARIS, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—When the French Empire was overthrown after Sedan, in 1870, and the Third Republic inaugurated the enthusiastic townsfolk of Lafayette (Isere). In their joy, overthrew the bronze monument to Napoleon Bonaparte which the village had erected by popular subscription during the Emperor's heyday.

Now that spirits have calmed the citizens of Lafayette regret their destructive enthusiasm and have petitioned the government to give back the statue, which has been gathering patina in a national warehouse. The citizens have contributed the funds to put Napoleon back on his pedestal and the Republican government has consented.

Prehistoric Bones Found Under Street

LONDON, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Remains of prehistoric animals have been discovered during excavations in Trafalgar Square, well-known to tourists as the shipping office center.

The finds were unearthed during digging operations for the foundations of a new building close to the Admiralty Arch, and include limb bones and teeth of the rhinoceros, straight-tusked elephant, bison, giant ox and great cave bear, and the skull and antler of an early fallow deer.

Experts believe the fossils belong to the Pleistocene Age, having been found in Pleistocene gravel some forty feet below the surface. The remains have been presented to the National History Museum, South Kensington, and will be available for the use of students, but not exhibited to the general public.

Taxpayers May Have Monument

MANILA, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—After years of service as the butt of jokesmiths and cartoonists, the humble taxpayer may soon have a monument in his honor.

Plans of Representative Benito Soliven which will be placed before the Philippine Legislature call for erection of a "Monument to the Unknown Citizen."

Says Soliven: "The proposed monument will inculcate in the mind of our people civic virtue and peaceable service."

"In America and Europe monuments have been erected to the 'Unknown Soldier.' But the Philippines is a subject country not inclined to war, and we can best honor public sacrifice by honoring the humble citizen."

Least the humble citizen in question be brought too rudely face to face with the fact that he must pay for his own monument, Soliven's scheme calls for erection of the monument from money appropriated from unexpended insular government funds.

Attempt Made To Rob Drug Store

The fact that the door on the drug store, owned by H. M. Palmer, 492 San Pablo avenue, was secured by more than an ordinary bolt, prevented the shop from being rifled over the week-end. Palmer reported to the police yesterday that some one had cut a hole in the glass door of his shop near the door-knob. A number of bolts held the door.

100 'Coons Trained By New York Fancier

GENEVA, N. Y., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—Seward Dean of Belland, near here, has trained his more than 100 raccoons so that they respond to his call.

Kindness, Dean said, has been the prime secret of his success with the 'coons.

The animals respond freely about Dean's farm, respond to his call at once and have so far conquered their fear of humans that they eat from his hand.

HUNT SUSPECT IN CROCKETT SLAYING

MARTINEZ, Nov. 12—One man is dead and another is being hunted by sheriff's officers as the result of a shooting affray at a Crockett dance hall early Sunday morning. Two men collided during the dance and stepped outside of the hall to settle the dispute.

The dead man is Frank Flori, 40, a sugar company employee, shot five times, thrice through the heart while officers are searching for Guiseppe Terrase, 38, also a sugar worker, who is charged with the murder of Flori.

Witnesses told the sheriff's office that the two stepped outside of the dance hall and Terrase slapped Flori's face. He drew a revolver and emptied the gun into Flori, witnesses declared immediately after the shooting Terrase fled. Officials have expressed the opinion that Terrase is being sheltered by friends at Crockett.

BLESSING OR CURSE

It's hard to tell, in this modern age, whether any new invention is going to turn out to be an agent of destruction or an instrument of peace.

Consider, for instance, the airplane.

In some ways the airplane is one of the greatest possible aids for breaking down barriers of prejudice, ignorance and distance between nations.

Lindbergh's flight to Paris was an outstanding demonstration of that fact. When his silver plane came gliding down to Le Bourget field in the darkness, a new friendship began between the French and American people. In a very real and valuable sense the international relations of these two nations were made better by his flight.

Similarly the flight of the Bremen from Germany to Labrador did much to revive old time friendship between the United States and Germany. And no one in this country has forgotten what Lindbergh's flight to Mexico City did for Mexican-American relations.

That's one side of the picture—a mighty attractive side. Now for the other.

The airplane, in addition to being a freight and passenger carrier, an instrument of exploration and a means for rapid communication, is also a war weapon of great potency.

The last war hardly did more than indicate the possibility. There were many aerial combats, many extensive raids; yet they were as nothing to what will be done in the air in the next war. Great fleets of planes carrying hundreds of tons of explosives will fly over cities and wipe them out in one vast cataclysm. Flying navies will swarm through the air in profusion. No one, be he 500 miles behind the front, will be safe. War will be brought home to the women and children, the aged and the infirm. Its horrors will be increased beyond our comprehension.

And this, also, is one of the fruits of aviation.

How are we to classify the airplane, then? Is it a blessing or a curse? Will there ever come a time when we will wish the airplane had never been invented?

Truly, in this modern age it is hard to pass hard and fast judgments on any new discovery.—Napa Register.

THE RADIO CAMPAIGN

The presidential campaign of 1928 will go down in history as unique. The chief thing that made it so has been the radio.

Never before have the candidates been able to speak directly to so many of the electorate at one time. Never before have so many voters been able to listen to the voices of the candidates, weigh their pleas and get their arguments at first hand. Probably every voter in the country heard the voices of the leading candidates.

This thing became most striking as the campaign came to its close. Imagine what such old time campaigners as Bryan would have thought if they could have known that on the night before election each of the two contenders could make a last appeal that would be heard by citizens scattered all the way from Maine to California!

The radio, we believe, is a tremendous boon to American politics. It should make for more intelligent decisions and for a more wide-spread discussion of issues.—Vallejo Times-Herald.

Philadelphia district attorney says he discovered that a police captain, drawing $250 a month, has banked $2500 in four months time. Just the man, obviously, to help Mr. Coolidge out with that $94,000,000 deficit.

A small town is one where the leading church elder refuses to believe that the voices coming in over the radio are genuine.

BEAUTY

Personal daintiness is an entirely dependent on cleanliness that no woman can afford to overlook the smallest detail of her appearance.

Polished, well-shaped nails that are not really clean are ludicrous. If not actually disgusting, just as a smoothly waved head of dusty oily hair can never look anything but careless and ill-kept.

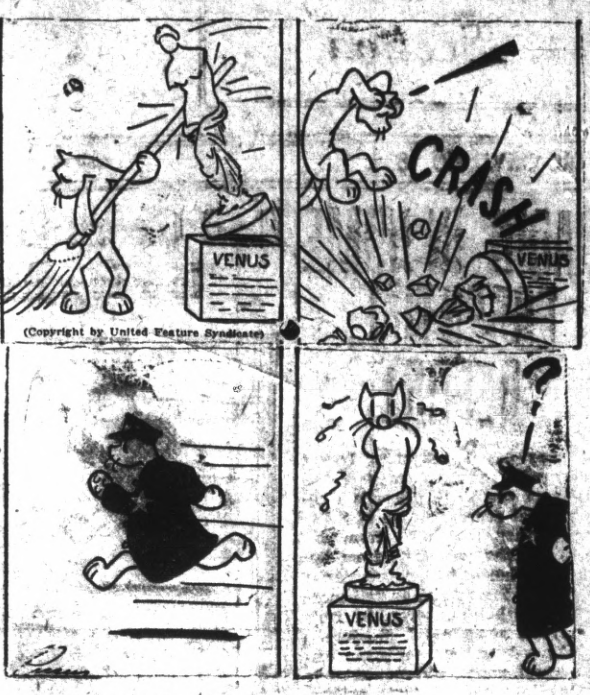

Before you attend to any of the more superficial aspects of grooming yourself, always make sure that your scalp, your nails and your skin is meticulously clean.

Dear Miss Lane:

How do you apply the oil for a hot oil treatment to the scalp before a shampoo? I have tried massaging it in with the fingertips, but it doesn't seem entirely satisfactory. And which is best, olive oil or mineral oil? Barbara.

VETERANS BACK ROLL CALL OF RED CROSS

The American Red Cross in its annual Roll Call for renewal of membership should touch the hearts and appeal most strongly to the men and women of the nation who have worn the uniform of our country in her defense.

On the battlefield, in the hospital, on land and sea the emblem of the American Red Cross has signified unselfish and loyal service to mankind.

The American Red Cross stands as a bulwark in the civic affairs of our great nation, uniting us for one common purpose—Service to Humanity.

The commanders of the veteran organizations in Richmond appreciate the service rendered by the American Red Cross and realize that in time of national or local disaster and calamity it serves us as loyally as in time of war.

We therefore unite in urging the ex-service men and women of Richmond to enroll in the American Red Cross and appeal to them to render any service within their power that will swell the ranks of the local unit.

MAYOR URGES RED CROSS AID

In a formal proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Mattie Chandler she asked all citizens of Richmond to renew their allegiance to the American Red Cross during the Twelfth Annual Roll Call for membership which opens today and continues through Thanksgiving.

Her proclamation reads: "Membership in this great humanitarian army should be considered a privilege and an obligation. The Red Cross is dependent for its existence upon the support of people who annually pay their dues and receive a certificate of membership."

"These dues form a fund which enables the Red Cross to go immediately into action to continue and carry on a system of national and international relief in time of peace, to apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods and other great national calamities, and to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same. It enables the United States to play the role of philanthropist among nations."

"I strongly urge every man, woman and child in this community to become members of the Red Cross during the present roll call. Our local chapter of which Bert E. Scoble is president, is counting on enlisting four thousand members and when the campaign is ended, if we go over the top it will be a great personal satisfaction to me and a satisfaction to the city of Richmond to know that we have played our part in boosting the membership of the national Red Cross."

Inheritance Tax High In England

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Death duties continue to play havoc with British fortunes. More than a million pounds sterling is expected to fall to the lot of the treasury in respect to the four million pound estate of James Walker Oxley, the well-known Leeds banker who died last July at the age of 94. Although the estate has been sworn at 2,768,868 pounds, it is thought that it will likely work out approximately 4,000,000 pounds. Other windfalls for the treasury during the past twelve months are: 500,000 pounds paid in May by Lady Houston in respect to the estate of the late Sir Robert Houston; 475,000 death duties on the 1,262,901 pounds estate of Stephen Clift of Leeds; and approximately another million the 1,262,901 pounds estate of Viscount Hambleton.

Danville Boy Grid Failure, Ends Own Life

DANVILLE, Nov. 12.—Believed to have been brooding over the refusal of his football captain to permit him to play an entire game Friday, Robert Foster, 15, a senior at the local high school, climbed to the attic of his home in the Alma valley Saturday night and hanged himself.

The boy was discovered by his father, R. N. Foster, a chicken rancher, who returned to his home early yesterday morning.

The mother told officials that the boy was over-sensitive and that when he came home Friday night, he cried because they would not permit him to play the whole game with the local high school squad. Saturday he went to the Mt. Diablo club, where he is a caddy. His mother and father were in Oakland, attending an Eastern Star meeting. Upon their return, the father found the body of the boy.

El Oafi As Pro Worries Paris

PARIS, Nov. 12.—(U.P.)—By turning professional in accepting the sum of $10,000 for a six month's tour of the United States, the Algerian El Oafi, winner of the Olympic marathon at Amsterdam, has caused a lot of heart burnings in France.

"Our only Olympic champion has failed us, turned traitor to the cause; what deception he prepares for himself," one writer declares. Little El Oafi himself went off to America with a broad smile on his lips and his contract in his pocket, no doubt comparing with the time when he had to work long hours in a Paris suburban factory for not too big a reward.

Her brother, Robert W. McKune, donned his green cap as a freshman, but his sister is not with him. On a two month's voyage to the United States she fell in love with an Englishman and shortly after the boat docked in New York became engaged. McKune told college authorities. Instead of accompanying her brother to Penn State, she sent a telegram to her father saying she would return to Johannesburg about June.
